EDITORIAL

During this month, commencement exercises are being held all over the country. New hordes of young men and women are pouring forth into society. These men, who have many different interests and ambitions, should have one thought in common—their gratitude for living in the United States.

Recently air maneuvers were held here in New England. In several newspapers, maps were published showing vital areas of many of the important cities in the New England sector. In what other countries of the world would such information be allowed to be published? Certainly not in Germany, Russia, Italy, or Japan.

These graduates are entering into citizenship in a country where liberty is universal and free. For that reason, together with numerous others, they should be grateful that they live in a country where they can say what they want and what they believe to be right and just.

TRIBUTUM AD FEMINAS

Millions and millions of years ago, a miracle was born: Eve was created from the rib of Adam. Down through the ages, from prehistoric times to today, the results of that miracle can be readily discerned. Woman has been, is, and always will be the true ruler of the world.

Everybody knows the understanding, the patience, the devotion of a mother. Everybody knows the gaiety, the buoyancy, the love of a maiden. Women have sacrificed themselves through eternity upon the altar of devotion to man. They have consecrated their lives to just one object: love—love of country; of their fellow beings; of their children; and above all, of their man.

In this all-consuming devotion, they have lost themselves. All their desires, their ambitions are subordinated to this one devotion. In this, they have succeeded admirably, overcoming all obstacles, and all hindrances. Today, they stand forth exemplifying the best that is in life, an example of what all mankind should strive to imitate. I say imitate, for it is not in the power of man to duplicate anything so wonderful as woman.

No greater tribute can I pay to the womanhood of the world than this eloquent inscription placed by a man upon the tombstone of his wife: "She touched the soil of Virginia with her little foot, and the wilderness became a home."

HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

Throughout the year, a number of speakers have addressed us at our assemblies. A wide variety of topics have been discussed such as Peace, Nature subjects, and War. The following is the list of those who have addressed us:

Mr. Lloyd L. Sweet, Nature Lecturer.

Mr. Bockman, who spoke on Streamlined Youth.

Mr. Daniel Howard, former superintendent of this school, gave us a Peace Day Address.

Rev. P. L. Dolan, presented the Decoration Day Address.

Mr. James E. Cannon, presented the Armistice Day Address.

We were also visited by an Ensign of the United States Navy who showed pictures of the life of the enlisted men aboard ship.

On the last Friday of each month of the school year, the pupils of the W. L. H. S. have had printed in the Windsor Locks Journal, a number of articles concerning school activities of interest to the people of the town. All articles were written by pupils under the guidance of the English Department.

This column was printed in order to take the place of The High School Herald. By this method, more people may be informed as to the activities of the school, with less trouble and expense to all.

At the beginning of the school year, a new course in Senior Science was introduced which deals primarily with the commonplace things of every-day life. Mr. Nelson Parmelee, head of our Science Department, is the instructor.

The annual magazine contest, sponsored by the Athletic Association, was held this fall with a tremendous amount of success. The proceeds went toward equipment for the baseball team.

SENIOR CLASS NOTES

President	JOHN COLLI
Vice-President	MICHAEL MOLYN
Secretary	JEAN CAMP
Treasurer	RITA FUREY

In September, thirty-five students entered high school as Seniors. This number was increased to thirty-six with the addition of Kathleen Rabbett later in the year.

On September 17, a class meeting was held and the officers for the year were chosen.

As the finances of the class were very low, the Seniors sponsored successful sandwich and cake sales during the year. Also Christmas cards and high school emblems were sold by members of the Senior Class as a means of earning money for the class.

The first social was given in the Memorial Hall on November 5. This affair proved to be so successful that a second social was given at the same place on February 4. Refreshments were served and all the guests had an enjoyable time.

At a class meeting on November 30, John Sheridan, Robert McKenna, Valmore Gratton, and George Connolly were elected to the Athletic Council.

This year instead of presenting a three-act play, it was decided to give two one-act comedies. These comedies, "The Tea-Pot on the Rocks" and "Bargains in Cathay," which gave the Seniors a chance to show their skill in dramatics, were presented at the Rialto Theatre on February 16, before a large audience. The proceeds from the plays and from the sale of candy proved very satisfactory. The Senior Class is very appreciative of the generous support of the townspeople.

Later in the year the Senior Class voted to wear caps and gowns for commencement. They also selected red and gold as their class colors, the red rose as their class flower, and "Through Trials to Triumph" as their motto.

In April, the class had their pictures taken at The Brown Studio in Springfield, Massachusetts.

It was decided to have an unusual court scene for a Class Night Program, which was composed by Michael Molyn. Class Night was held in St. Mary's Hall on June 9.

The Senior Reception was held at the Memorial Hall on June 10; the banquet was held at the Highland Hotel in Springfield, Massachusetts, on June 15. At this time toasts were given to the school, to athletics, and to the faculty. Class gifts were also distributed by four members of the class.

Thus the Seniors graduated from W. L. H. S. with appropriate exercises held at St. Mary's Hall on Thursday, June 16.

CLARENCE E. ROSZELLE, '38.

JUNIOR CLASS NOTES

President	BRUNO SEAHA
Vice-President	RAMON McCUE
Secretary	MARJORIE McCANN
Treasurer	LILLIAN SNOW

Representatives to the Athletic Council are as follows: Ramon McCue, Winston Firtion, and Edwin Malec.

The class began the year with an enrollment of thirty-seven pupils, but during the year three members left and one new member joined the class. This leaves us at present with thirty-five members.

Social successes presented by the class under the direction of Miss Loeser and Miss Casinghino were the Christmas Program, Junior Essay contest, and the Junior Prom. On May 11, at St. Mary's Hall, the speaking contest was held. The participants and their topics were: Lillian Snow, Women in Politics; Margaret Rabbett, Success; Ramon McCue, Propaganda; Germain Paquin, Fire Prevention; Irene Daglio, Safety on the Highway; John Longo, Juvenile Delinquency; Jean Fairman, Can America Remain Neutral? Margaret Rabbett, Irene Daglio and Ramon McCue ranked first, second and third respectively. Music was furnished by the Girls' Glee Club and the Boys' Chorus.

On May 13, at the Memorial Hall, which was decorated as a May Pole scene, the Junior Prom was held. The affair, with music by Chick Gatto, proved to be a success both financially and socially.

The many cake sales sponsored by the Junior Class proved to be financial successes and the class wishes to thank their schoolmates for the spirit and cooperation shown in all these events.

Vice-President	BETTY McCLOSKEY
Secretary.....	MARION HOLMES
Treasurer.....	JOSEPH BELTRANDI

In October, the Sophomore Class elected officers for the year. For the Athletic Association, Chester McComb and Samuel Flanders were selected and for the Journal Reporter, Josephine Pikul was elected.

A Thanksgiving Day program was presented under the direction of Miss Burke. Miss Holbrooke directed the class in a combined Washington-Lincoln program with Mrs. Allen directing the music.

JOSEPHINE PIKUL, '40.

FRESHMAN CLASS NOTES

President.....	URBAN FLANDERS
Vice-President.....	ALICE DEMING
Treasurer.....	LEWIS NAIE
Secretary.....	MARY RABBETT

The total enrollment of the Freshman class at the beginning of the year was seventy-one, consisting of thirty-nine girls and thirty-two boys. During the course of the year, twelve pupils left school, leaving a total of fifty nine.

During the year we put on one program in honor of Memorial Day.

The class elected for the Athletic Council, Fred Krauss; and as reporter for the Journal, John McCue.

JOHN MCCUE, '41.

In Appreciation

To all who have cooperated in any way, however small, to help make this issue of the Herald a success, the Herald Board and Class of 1938 extend their sincere thanks.

“ATHLETICS”

Because there is no gymnasium in the school, the only sport that the school is able to participate in is baseball.

In the early part of March, the Athletic Council held a meeting for the purpose of electing officers. The following were chosen: President, Robert McKenna; Vice-President, Ramon McCue; Secretary and Treasurer, John Sheridan; Captain, Robert McKenna; and Manager, Jerry Connolly.

Early Spring practice was called and approximately twenty candidates reported. Out of this number thirteen were chosen for the team. They were as follows: Seniors—Robert McKenna; Juniors—Sigmond Bednarz and Edward Malec; Sophomores—Albert Calsetta, Chester McComb, Joseph Molinari; Freshmen—Fred Krauss, John Brown, Louis Nai, Chester Prebit, John Carnavale, Jack McCue and Francis Ciperalli.

Under the careful supervision of Coach Robert Jackson, the team developed very rapidly.

Although this season was not very successful, it is thought by many, that they will be very powerful and hard to overtake in future years.

The schedule was as follows:

April 19	Rockville High School	Away	Lost
April 22	Manchester Trade School	Away	Lost
May 3	Bloomfield High School	Home	Won
May 13	Bloomfield High School	Away	Lost
May 17	Manchester Trade School	Home	Lost
May 24	Collinsville High School	Away	Won
May 27	Enfield High School	Home	Lost
May 31	Enfield High School	Away	Cancelled
June 3	Rockville High School	Home	Lost

GRADUATION NIGHT PROGRAM

SALUTATORY

Members of the Board of Education, Teachers, Parents, and Friends:

It is an honor to be able to welcome you here tonight in behalf of the Class of 1938. We wish to thank you for your cooperation and interest in our activities and we sincerely hope you will enjoy our commencement program.

One hundred years ago, Henry Barnard was chosen as Secretary of the board of Commissioners of Common Schools in Connecticut. Perhaps you will ask, "Who is Henry Barnard?" If you are a student, an educator, a parent, or a lover of little children, you are enjoying the results of his effort and vision. This man often called "the godfather to the kindergarten" was born in Hartford, January 24, 1811, the son of a prosperous farmer.

Because his early school days were so unhappy, Barnard contemplated following his father's example and seeking freedom and happiness at sea. The elder Barnard heard of his son's plans and immediately determined to discuss the situation with the boy. As a result of this, young Henry was given two choices: the sea or boarding school. He chose the latter and entered Monson Academy where he learned for the first time in his life that the world was beautiful.

After graduating from Yale in 1830, Barnard taught school for a year and then began the study of law. His experience in college as a debator and orator later aided him a great deal in his legal and political life. During the next few years, in order to enlarge his experience and continue his education, Henry Barnard traveled through Europe, seeking advice from European educators, attending lectures and meeting people in social gatherings. All the information secured in this way was stored in his brain to be used later on in his books and journals on education.

On his return to Connecticut, he was elected to the Connecticut General Assembly at the age of 26. He served three terms and was then appointed Secretary of the Connecticut Board of Education. Thus he was compelled to forsake his legal career and devote the rest of his life to improving common schools. Barnard continued his educational work in Connecticut, Rhode Island, Wisconsin, and Maryland until 1870, when he withdrew from public life to write his "Journal of Education." He returned to Hartford and died in the house of his birth at the age of 89, still full of eager visions which might benefit both adults and children.

The names of Henry Barnard and Horace Mann are often associated with the beginning of free education in this country. True, they often worked together but Barnard lacked Mann's executive ability while Mann lacked Barnard's vision. What Mann did for Massachusetts, Barnard did for Connecticut. For this reason, we can truthfully call Horace Mann "The Father of Child Education" and Henry Barnard, "The Father of Teacher Education."

RITA FUREY, '38.

HENRY BARNARD

Just as Horace Mann deserves to be called the "Father of the Free Public Schools in America," so does Henry Barnard merit the title "Father of Teacher Preparation and Education." It was once said that Barnard's method was that of Abraham Lincoln and other great social leaders, because he did the necessary work first and from the results determined the absolute objectives.

Henry Barnard has been called the outstanding American educational reformer of the nineteenth century, but he was much more than a reformer. He was a pioneer; for he not only corrected abuses in public education, but he gave to it a new meaning, a new foundation.

To Henry Barnard we are indebted for the first teachers' institute or the forerunner of the modern normal school, also the first library connected with a common school in Connecticut, and the earliest recognition of education by the Federal government.

In 1838, Barnard's professional life began. Before ten years had passed, he had spoken in behalf of free schools in every state of the Union except Texas.

Some of his early school reports contain the bases of the state and city school governments in existence today. He advocated better graded schools, school supervision, and trained teachers. He was also insistent that there should be better schoolhouses.

Through all his career, the center of Barnard's real interest was the teacher. In 1839, he issued an invitation to teachers in Hartford to meet for several days in Hartford, where they would be given lessons—in the teaching of reading, arithmetic, the use of globes, and other devices—by competent men, all hired and paid by Henry Barnard himself. Twenty-five teachers responded. Although this was only seven weeks in length, it was one of the first teacher's institutes.

One of Barnard's most famous thoughts was this: "The common school should be common as the light and air. That day will come. For me, I mean to enjoy the satisfaction of the labor, let who will enter the harvest."

The day of the common school has come. We have entered the harvest. Let us therefore, in this centennial year, praise the man who performed the labor.

THROUGH TRIALS TO TRIUMPH

What is a triumph? In its true meaning, a triumph is the condition of being victorious or of having attained success.

There is, however, a kind of success which is obtained by means of wealth, fame, or social position. But this type does not constitute a triumph; for it results from selfishness, greed, and sometimes moral loss, and thus should be avoided.

Then there is the kind of success which comes through honest effort and patience. In order to attain this type, one often endures bitterness, trials, and defeat. If a person lacks patience and the determination to forge ahead in the face of obstacles and trials, he will never taste the joy of triumph. In addition to being patient, one must be able to apply himself vigorously, industriously, and courageously to the vocation or path of life he has chosen. He should not forsake his life work because he has come in contact with the thorns which lie on the path to triumph.

Among the famous men who have endured trials in order to attain success, Abraham Lincoln serves as one of the most famous examples. Everyone is acquainted with the poverty of his early life, with his determination to become educated, and finally with his illustrious political career. Another striking example is Henry Barnard, who, by his untiring efforts, helped advance education in the common schools of Connecticut. Truly, these two great men climbed "THROUGH TRIALS TO TRIUMPH."

Therefore, success in life is not offered to one on a golden platter. It must be earned through honest, patient, unceasing toil. A person must pass "THROUGH TRIALS TO TRIUMPH", and, as the poet writes:

*"He must take a blow or give one,
He must risk and he must lose,
And expect that in the struggle
He will suffer from the bruise.
But he mustn't wince or falter,
If the fight does once begin,
But be a man and face the battle—
That's the only way to win."*

VALEDICTORY

WE ARE THE FAITH OF THE FUTURE

We are the faith of the future. In us is vested not only the destiny of ourselves, but also the destiny of the world. We, who are about to take our places in the world, who will carry on the work heretofore carried on by you, are the unknown quantity in life. On our shoulders will rest the cares, the worries, and the responsibilities formerly borne by you.

What have you left to us? At the present time, we are in the midst of a business recession, how serious nobody knows. Undoubtedly this recession will make our task much more difficult. We have a staggering national debt which must be shouldered by us. We are menaced on all sides by Communism, Fascism, nationalism, and militarism. All of these political theories can be united into just one "ism", egotism. Therefore, our task is not an enviable one.

In short, this is what we must do. We must pay off a national debt of at least ten billions of dollars, at the same time bringing back prosperity to the United States and keeping the United States out of war.

You may say, "You're just getting out of high school. You won't have to worry about those things for a long time." But, do we not have to worry about those things? The day after tomorrow, most of us will be looking for jobs that do not exist. Ten short years from now, we shall begin to take over the reins of government from your hands, and still you say we do not have to worry.

Nevertheless, do not think that we are discouraged, for we are not. It is merely that we realize fully the responsibilities that we shall assume during the next few years. We intend to shoulder those responsibilities with the zeal of youth tempered with the gravity of knowledge, with the strength of men controlled by the foresight of intelligence, and with the ambition of patriots fired with true love of country.

Classmates: Before we take the step from the care-free days of high school adolescence to the manhood of life, let us simply say that we shall be eternally grateful to those who have helped to make our four years of high school life profitable and enjoyable in any way. And in memory of those people, let us take this vow: that we will leave to posterity a better world to live in than we found it when we entered it.

HISTORY OF THE CLASS OF 1938

The fall of 1934 marks one of the most brilliant epochs of all history, because in that year the intellectual class of 1938 entered the Windsor Locks High School. We were a group of seventy-five students, destined to make ourselves famous under the able guidance of the following officers: Irene Galipeau, George Connolly, Jean Campanosi and Francis Wallace. We made our first public appearance at an Easter program, and then later we took part in a Recreation program. A few weeks later our industrious class held a sandwich sale, the profits being used for sporting goods.

The next year, fifty-three freshmen enrolled as sophomores. Class officers were as follows: President, John Colli; Vice-President, Francis Gorka; Secretary, Irene Galipeau; Treasurer, Anna Albani. As we were not so very busy during our Sophomore year with special functions, our thoughts were confined chiefly on a Christmas program.

The following year, thirty-nine pupils enrolled as unsophisticated Juniors. The officers chosen were President, John Colli; Vice-President, Irene Galipeau; Secretary, Jean Campanosi; Treasurer, Francis Gorka. During this year the Junior Prom was held, which proved to be a real social and financial success. Then on June 2, at St. Mary's Hall, the annual Junior Essay Contest was presented. In the course of the year we sponsored sandwich and cake sales to increase our treasury.

In September, as dignified Seniors, we were back for our last year at high school. The selected officers were President, John Colli; Vice-President, Michael Molyn; Secretary, Jean Campanosi; Treasurer, Rita Furey. Later the successful plays, "The Teapot on the Rock" and "Bargains in Cathay", were presented by the Seniors, on February 18. During the year the Seniors sponsored socials which were carried on in a unique manner.

In May, our pictures were taken at the Brown Studio, and then our thoughts were bent on graduation. On June 10, the Seniors held their Commencement Dance at the Memorial Hall and on June 15 the class attended their annual banquet at the Highland Hotel. In conclusion, let me say that this brilliant and intellectual class leaves behind them an example any class might try to follow. The prescription for this is simply to follow our motto "Through Trials to Triumphs."

CLASS PROPHECY

Information has just reached me that Chester Bobiarz and Francis Gorka have recently organized an Hawaiian swing band, with vocalizing by Michael Molyn and Daniel Christian.

I had been told that Carmen Raconne, Anna McCloskey, Florence Libby, Rita Furey and Jean Camp had entered a convent, so naturally I was surprised when I saw them working at a New York night club as Apache dancers.

Rita Meade and Phyllis Sheehan have spent so much time on the corner of Spring and Center Streets while going to school, that our police chief has given them the exclusive right to do traffic duty at that spot.

Jane Griffin, Florence Pohorylo, Helen Mazur and Lena Marinone have all settled down and married. The strange thing is, they have all married city dudes from "Scantic".

John Sheridan, Ralph Bacen and John Colli have bought out Marconi's News-stand. They are covering all the territory east of the Granby Mountain.

Eleanor Scott, Zita Quagliaroli, Florence Sluzinski and Julia Sluzinski, are editors of the new agricultural magazine called "The Connecticut Farmer."

Robert McKenna, Valmore Gratton and Jerry Connolly have won the Rhodes Scholarship and are touring in France studying foreign languages. They major in Russian, Chinese and the ancient classics.

After serving a long term of apprenticeship under her father, Doris Jenkins has opened a shoe store of her own, capitalized by Marion Mather, in the Sheridan Block on Main Street.

Clarence Roszelle has an important position in one of the famous dress designing houses in Paris. He is assisted by Kathleen Rabbett, Marjorie Quagliaroli and Dorothy Masera. The girls do all the work and Clarence gets all the credit.

Alice Friss, Rosemary Draghi, Florence Ciparelli, Anna Fitzpatrick and Evelyn Fernette have opened up an employment agency guaranteeing jobs to all W. L. H. S. Graduates. They promise a position with a four-hour day, 6 weeks' vacation, and not less than $10,000 to start.

CLASS POEM

There is a ladder before us,
A ladder that touches the sky,
A ladder that is flimsy and fickle,
A ladder that reaches on high.

'Tis that long fought-for and envied ladder of life
At the top of which lies success.
'Tis a long, hard climb to the topmost rung
But we will take no less.

Now we're at the middle rung
We know not what's our fate,
But at the top at the Judgment Day
Will be the Class of Thirty-Eight.

MICHAEL MOLYN, '38.

CLASS SONGS

Tune: Good Night, Angel

Farewell, classmates,
Just one more night together with you
Before we leave and take our cares upon us,
And bid farewell to those we leave behind.
Farewell, classmates,
Life's road will be so lonely without you
And to our teachers all, who saw us through,
Adieu, classmates, adieu.

RITA MEADE, '38,
MARION MATHER, '38,
PHYLLIS SHEEHAN, '38.

Tune: At the End of a Perfect Day

We've reached the end of four perfect years
Of joy, and care, and strife,
And at the end of these perfect years
We earnestly must face life.
Through trials and triumphs to reach our goal
We our carefree way did wend,
Now at the end of four perfect years
Our high school days must end.
